

Ranger Fund

30 June 2022

Performance Commentary

The Ranger Fund was down 10.59% over June.

Price movements in June were extreme in some cases and often unrelated to any material news. In our opinion, this was caused by an extreme period of market pessimism amplified by end-of-financial-year (30 June) tax loss selling activity by Australian investors subject to capital gains tax.

MacMahon Group (-23%), MoneyMe (-53%) and Retail Food Group (-26%) were the main detractors for the month. MoneyMe is a good example of the extreme price movements over the month. Its price fall preceded an AFR article claiming they tested a capital raise with investors, which management then rebutted, publicly stating that the claim and financial information contained in the article was incorrect. Its price has risen over 15% in July but is still well below its June price high.

Coventry Group (+10%) was the main contributor, guiding expectations that their annual earnings will be up over 10%.

Fund Strategy

The investment strategy of the fund is to exploit market inefficiencies resulting from a bias to short term performance by financial market investors, through investing in a range of Australasian assets. Castle Point has broad discretion on the type and proportion of Australasian assets the fund invests into. Given the broad investment mandate of the fund there is no target asset allocation or investment mix. There are some restrictions and investment limits on certain assets. Refer to the fund's current statement of investment policy and objectives.
